

Throw it to me ...Throw it to me!!

No sorry, Keiran was NOT at BYRA this week, it was just the Burlblers having a soccer game in the Bay. What else are we supposed to do when there is no wind, behave like in school..... yeah right.

This week the weather was FANTASTIC and the water was VERY warm, so everyone had a great time chasing the ball and trying to ignore all Andrew's vain attempts at some organised activity. This soon degenerated into general mucking around much to St Peter's angst.

Sailing Report

The technical lesson this week was how to capsize and survive without the need for Trainer intervention, which was purely coincidental to the weather. Everyone managed multiple practice runs, and some very creative roll overs. Some of our stars even managed to end up in the water with the boat still upright.

Well done everyone, because this practice will be invaluable when you really need it when the wind blows.

There were also some really smart PJ antics this week as the lessons from last year came back. Great work and remember that you cannot hide inside the moorings all year and one day WE WILL come and get you onto the big kid's area.

Spiral Emerging Athlete Program

The next dates for this program to be held at BYRA are:

- 12 November
- 10 December
- 14 January

If anyone is interested, talk to Greg. They are excellent value and great training for those who are ready to have a go at the Spiral titles.

Parents Social Club

A very poor show this week with no coffee on SVP, although valiant attempts to rescue the day thanks to Hamish who produced some great muffins, which probably saved Greg's life on SVP.

Parents decided to have an impromptu drinks session on the deck, whilst the kids were demolishing the barbeque. Kids, what kids?

The day was not lost completely and we took the hint from the ladies who object most strongly to plastic cups for the champers. Sorry ladies, we forgot we have an image to maintain and we won't make that mistake again.

Tip for the Coach
Chill OUT...capsizes are good training.

Tip from the Coach
"Let's feed Greg to the sharks".
Special Notice

The next Burbler will be after sailing on 6 November. So there will be NO Burbler next week.

Extra, Extra, Special Notice

Next Sunday is almost Halloween, so the scariest outfits are the order of the day, the more gruesome, the better!!!!
